

RE: Tablet Command Sole Source Status

March 20, 2023

To Whom it May Concern:

Tablet Command, Inc. is the sole source provider for all Tablet Command software and services.

We are the sole provider in the market space providing an iOS application used as a mobile incident command, resource management and accountability solution that integrates through a direct interface with customer computer aided dispatch (CAD) systems.

Our product is unique in the following additional ways:

- No other solution provider provides an incident and resource management platform utilizing a simple intuitive graphical user interface.
- No other solution provider maintains resource management and accountability functionality in a non-connected state.
- No other solution provider supports automatic vehicle location (AVL) sharing across jurisdictional boundaries.
- No other solution provider supports shared incident management view (Real Time Sync) and transfer of command between authenticated users.

Tablet Command is sold only as a direct transaction between Tablet Command, Inc. and its customers.

Sincerely,
