What is Homelessness?

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) defines a person who is homeless as:

- a) living in a place not designed or ordinarily used as a regular sleeping accommodation for humans (i.e., abandoned buildings, cars, parks, under bridges, bus stops, etc.); and
- b) living in emergency shelters and transitional housing projects.

It is important to note that HUD's definition does not include households that are below the poverty line or those individuals that are near-homeless.

Why Does HUD Matter?

- The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) releases the Annual Homeless Assessment Report to Congress (AHAR) in two parts. Part 1 provides Point-in Time (PIT) estimates, offering a snapshot of homelessness—both sheltered and unsheltered—on a single night.
- Communities that receive federal funds are required to participate in the PIT Count to continue receiving federal funding for homeless assistance programs.
- In 2017, Riverside County received a total of $9,978,890 from HUD for the Continuum of Care
- Corona's PIT Count will take place on January 29, 2019.

Annual Homeless Assessment Report to Congress:

- 552,830 Homeless in the U.S
- 1/3 (35%) were unsheltered and living on the street
- Homelessness increased for the 2nd year in a row
- Between 2017-18, the unsheltered population increased by 2%
- Homelessness in families with children has declined by 2% (2017-18), overall decline of 23% (2007-2018)
- Homeless Veterans declined by 5% (2017-18) and 48% since 2009

1 There are 552,830 people experiencing homelessness in the United States.

Homelessness has declined 13% since 2010 but is up 0.3% since 2017.

2 Which populations changed since 2017?

3 Who is unsheltered?

More than one-third of people experiencing homelessness were unsheltered — living on the streets or in some other location not meant for human habitation.

The population of people living unsheltered includes 178,077 individuals and 16,390 people in families.

What We've Learned

If someone's basic safety and survival needs are secure, they will have mental and emotional margin to focus on deeper issues;

If, with that margin, they develop an internal motivation to create their preferred reality, then they will move forward in doing so;

If a motivated person has clear access to resources, tools, and opportunities to accomplish their goals AND if that person develops the personal mindsets and modes of operations they need to successfully implement the resources, tools, and opportunities, then that person will experience positive results from their efforts and keep moving forward;

Relational Support (formal/professional, and especially informal/models) are required for sustained success and transformation.
